COUNCIL CREATES A DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

Ordinance is Unanimously Adopted at Special Meeting Held Last Night

BURGESS IS AT SESSION

Will Co-ordinate Police and Fire Departments and Increase Efficiency

Borough Council was left in the dark, last night, when one circuit of lights in the Municipal Building went out of commission and it became necessary for the borough fathers to hold a special session in the assembly room of the building instead of in the council chamber.

The lack of illumination, however, lasted but a few minutes, after an electrician arrived light service was restored.

The meeting was a special one called to pass upon an ordinance establishing a department of public safety for the borough and constituting the existing police and fire departments as bureaus in the department of public safety. (The ordinance is given in detail on Page 3.)

After the presentation of the ordinance printed copies of it were distributed to the councilmen present, it was read in its entirety by the secretary, after which it was read by sections, rules of council suspended and the ordinance passed on second reading. It was adopted by sections and also as a whole.

Burgess Anderson was present and participated in the discussion of the ordinance.

The vote was unanimously in favor of the ordinance, all councilmen voting for it.

The councilmen present were: Dr. J. Fred Wagner, Clarence W. Winter, Harry H. Headley, William Warner, Armand V. Morris, Richard T. Myers, Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., Evan Vandegrift, Joseph Duffy, Roy F. Fry, Richard Winslow, William Johns, Frank Satterthwaite, F. Herbert Zebley.

Watching the Weather With Uncle Sam

A Series of Talks by Welby R. Stevens
(Assistant Weather Forecaster, U. S. Weather Bureau)

Recently we said that the most important feature on the weather chart was the isobars. These lines locate the high and low pressure areas, which are roughly elliptical in form. It is absolutely necessary for the forecaster to know where the HIGHS and LOWS are located, because the ceaseless changes in our weather are due almost entirely to their approach and passage and the winds which attend them.

The meteorologist uses a variety of terms to designate a low pressure area, such as LOW, depression, disturbance, or cyclone. Contrary to popular public opinion "cyclone" is not the proper name for a severe wind storm and is often used to indicate a tornado. Only rarely are the winds in a cyclone destructive, while in a tornado they are always destructive.

A cyclone or LOW is of wide extent. On the average they have diameters between 500 and 1,000 miles, but sometimes they may be as large as 2,000 miles in diameter. They usually move from some westerly to some easterly point. Except in a certain portion of the disturbance, the wind does not blow in the same direction that the LOW is moving. This is due to the fact that the surface winds circulate around the LOW. The circulation is counterclockwise in the Northern Hemisphere and clockwise in the Southern, with the winds blowing spirally inward toward the center. In the Northern Hemisphere the temperature to the south and east of the LOW is comparatively high because in those portions the winds are from some southerly quarter. On the west side the temperature is comparatively low for the wind is from some northern direction.

MUSICAL COMEDY TO BE PRESENTED HERE

Cast to Be Selected at Special Meeting Tonight In K. of C. Home

URGE ALL TO ATTEND

A popular musical comedy is to be staged under the auspices of Bristol Council, No. 906, Knights of Columbus, and the cast for the production will be selected at a meeting to be held this evening.

The show will be directed by Henry Dowling, brother of the famous "Eddie" Dowling, who is well known here.

The cast is not to be restricted to members of the Dramatic Club only but any talented person in Bristol or vicinity will be welcomed and can aspire for the various parts. All interested are requested to meet at the K. of C. Home, tonight, at eight o'clock.

Mr. Dowling has staged several plays authored by his brother among the most successful are, "Sally, Irene and Mary," "The Sidewalks of New York," "The Rainbow Man," and "Honeymoon Lane."

"Sally, Irene and Mary," after an opening in Atlantic City, was hurried over to New York and the success of it was apparent.

The show played in Philadelphia with records breaking crowds and "Eddie" Dowling will be remembered to the theatre goers of Bristol who witnessed the performances as the famous "Jimmy Dugan" which part was the leading role.

Mr. Dowling has made a complete study of the shows that his brother attained fame in and it is his desire to put before the people in this vicinity the nearest approach of the original "Eddie Dowling" in "Sally, Irene and Mary."

WILL SHOW POLICE WHERE HE GOT BOOZE

Woodington Gives Drinking As Excuse for Turning In False Alarm

IS PUT ON PROBATION

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 4.—Frank Woodington, 59, 513 Pond street, Bristol, yesterday gave drunkenness as an excuse for having turned in a false fire alarm on the night of January 25th.

Woodington pulled Box 26, Lincoln avenue and Wood street, at seven o'clock on the evening of January 25th. Albert Volpi, 1025 Wood street, saw Woodington run from the box after sounding the alarm. Volpi gave chase and caught Woodington in an alley. He was turned over to the police and at a preliminary hearing held before a Bristol justice of the police was held for court trial.

At the trial yesterday Woodington told Judge Hiram H. Keller that he had been drinking and that that was the reason he had "pulled" the alarm. It was brought out at the trial that Woodington contributed to the support of his mother and Judge Keller imposed a 30-day sentence, which was immediately suspended. Woodington being placed on one year's probation with Chief of Police Jones, of Bristol, as probation officer.

Judge Keller asked Woodington where he had purchased his drink. Woodington's reply was "Oh, you can get it in any store in Bristol."

"What store?" queried Judge Keller. "Well, I just can't remember now," replied Woodington, but he informed the judge if it came to his mind he would tell him.

Woodington was told by District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn for him to take Chief Jones to the places where he had purchased drink. District Attorney Eastburn instructed Jones to raid the places named by Woodington.

Judge Keller warned Woodington that if he ever appears in court again on a similar charge he will be made to serve a sentence.

John Vermullen, of Quakertown, to a charge of larceny and receiving pleaded guilty yesterday in court here stolen goods. Vermullen is to serve one year in the county prison, and was fined $5 and costs. The severe sentence is partly owing to Vermullen's past prison records in New Jersey.

Former proprietor of a Perkassie hotel, Dr. J. J. Burton, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor in court yesterday. Burton was taken into custody when the hotel was raided on its opening night. He was fined $300 and costs by Judge Keller.

JUDGE URGES NEW CITIZENS TO BE ACTIVE IN AFFAIRS

Congratulates Them on Receiving Papers and Gives Advice for Future

OBEY THE LAW, HE SAYS

Something Higher Than Owning A Dog and A Gun

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 4.—Addressing ten new American citizens in naturalization court, Judge Hiram H. Keller extended his congratulations and urged them to take an active part in the life of the community in which they reside.

"It is quite evident that when you came to the United States you believed the opportunities here to be greater than in your own country," Judge Keller said.

"Unless you know something of the government of the United States you cannot become a citizen. Do not stop studying about this great country. Whether our country remains great depends on the people living here, and it is up to you to keep it great."

"Affiliate yourselves with the institutions of America, the state and county. Be interested in the community in which you live."

"Some applicants for citizenship have only one ambition and that is to own a dog and carry a gun. Have ideals that are higher than that. This country offers you protection. You can worship God as you see fit. But you have certain duties to perform, such as taxes to pay to help support the government, and you have laws to obey."

The new citizens granted their final papers after taking the oath of allegiance as are follows: Alice Naylor, Point Pleasant, a native of England; Andrey Danko, a native of Czechoslovakia; Edward Guzikowski, a native of Poland; Michael Hosman, Doylestown, a native of Germany; Matyas Gross, a native of Hungary; Rienk Hienstra, Eddington, a native of Netherlands; John Semashko, a native of Russia; Karl Ernst Linsenmaier, a native of Germany; Emilie Linsenmaier, Germany; George Benetz, Doylestown, a native of Germany. The application of John Budahazy, a native of Hungary, was dismissed because of lack of knowledge. The applicant had been before the examiner and court on two previous occasions.

Harold Rosenberger, of Allentown, secretary of a collection agency in that city, was fined $200 and costs this morning in Quarter Sessions Court by Judge Keller for operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Rosenberger was convicted several months ago and an application for a new trial was refused.

William (Whitey) Lewis, former Bethlehem hotel proprietor, has been denied a new trial by Judge Hiram H. Keller. The decision was announced this morning, and Lewis' attorney was directed to have his client in court on February 17 for sentence. He was convicted of highway robbery. Counsel for Lewis intimated this morning that the case will be appealed to a higher court.

Three divorces were granted by Judge Keller upon payment of costs as follows: Anna Oeschwald, of Hilltown township, from Harry L. Oeschwald, Perkassie, desertion; Anna L. M. Batt, Yardley, from John W. Batt, Yardley, desertion; Doris S. Kolbe, Wycombe, from Frank P. Kolbe, Jr., Philadelphia, desertion.

CARL P. CRAIG IS INJURED AT CROSSING HERE

Auto is Rendered to Splinters When Struck at Green Lane

IN HARRIMAN HOSPITAL

Has Broken Arm, and Possibly A Fracture of The Skull

Miraculously escaping instant death early this morning a Bristol man lies in the Harriman Hospital suffering from a broken arm and perhaps a fracture of the skull.

The injured: Carl P. Craig, 33, of 256 Jackson street.

Craig was driving across the Green Lane grade crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, approaching from the westerly side when his automobile was struck by a freight train at 2:38 a. m. today.

Craig's machine was crashed into by a train on track 3, westbound. The auto was tossed around and thrown between tracks three and four. The entire rear of the machine back of the driver's seat, and top, was crushed to splinters. Apparently Craig had attempted to cross the tracks either not having noticed the train approaching, or else attempted to "beat it," as the car was still in gear as the wreckage lay beside the tracks this morning.

The engineer of the train which was running as a "special" is said to have stated that Craig drove into the train.

There were two or three witnesses to the accident and they summoned the police who went to the scene and took Craig to the hospital.

Craig resides with his wife and two children at the Jackson street address, and is employed as a draftsman at the Keystone Aircraft Corporation plant here.

Those who viewed the wreckage of the auto following the accident marvelled at the fact that Craig had escaped alive. It is presumed that the impact threw him clear of the wreckage, and in this manner he has perhaps escaped fatal injuries.

So far as could be learned Craig was unaccompanied at the time of the crash.

X-ray pictures will be taken at the hospital today to determine the full extent of Craig's injuries.

COMFORT

Suppose a majority of Americans should become addicted to the habit of eating raw potatoes. There would be much discussion of the matter; professional viewers-with-alarm would assert that a diet of raw potatoes cause hardening of the arteries or something, and many good folk would wonder, as usual, what the world is coming to.

Under the circumstances, it would be the duty and pleasure of some deliverer after ancient evidence to discover documentary proof that people who lived five thousand years ago ate raw potatoes. Having established this, he could say to his alarmed fellow-citizens: "Nothing evil came of this ancient practice, for the world kept on growing better, as you see, and the race kept on improving until it developed our present perfection. If nothing happened before, nothing will happen now. Why worry?"

Do the ladies reveal their charms and endeavor to make themselves attractive to men? It does not mean that the race is decadent. They have been doing it for thousands of years, and yet virtue has survived.

Do the papers tell the story of men who steal and kill? It is an unpleasant state of affairs, but it doesn't signify anything in particular. When recorded history began there were knaves and brutes, and through all the years their like have lived, but the world has become a more pleasant place in spite of them.

Five thousand years ago and five hundred years ago there were youngsters who had no respect for age, tradition or current ethics. Yet here we are, rather decent in spite of handicaps.

If human nature and its curious and lamentable functionings didn't make a wreck of the cosmos when Babylon was in her glory, there is no reason to despair now. Human nature hasn't changed, nor has the ancient rule that like causes produce like effects.

The way to determine what the world is coming to is to look back a long time and then observe what it came to.

SYNOPSIS

Joe Lane, ex-gangster and star singer of QRS Radio Station, discovers that Arthur Phillips, his manager and best friend, is trying to take Katherine, his wife, away from him. Becoming enraged he hits Phillips and in falling the manager strikes his head and dies. Joe is serving a year in prison for manslaughter. Unwilling to disgrace Katherine and their son, Little Pal, Joe tries to force his wife to seek a divorce by accusing her of intimacy with Dr. Merrill, the physician for whom she works as a nurse. It is Christmas Day and Dr. Merrill entertains Katherine and Little Pal at his home. Katherine tells the doctor that she is considering a divorce because Joe wanted it.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

Her head bent, her shoulders drooping as though under an intolerable burden, Katherine moved towards the door. The guard rose quickly and came to her, helping her to the iron wicket. Why did they make it so much harder for each other, he was thinking. Oh, well, this stuff was always the worst part of the rap. He swung the door open. Katherine turned, the tears streaming down her face. She wasn't even sobbing, but her eyes kept brimming over. She took a last look at the man she loved. Softly, in a broken voice, he murmured: "Good-bye, Joe."

"Merry Christmas!"

The door closed quietly and the guard took his accustomed place at his desk. Joe could hear the scratch of his pen. So this was the end. Katherine was gone. It was growing dark. Quer, too, in the middle of the afternoon. Oh, yes, Katherine had gone and the light had gone with her. That was it.

Suddenly he heard someone speaking. "Come on, old man. Get up. Easy does it. Come on."

Why, he was lying on the floor and the kindly turner was trying to lift him. He must have fallen. The guard slipped his arm about the song plucker's waist and helped him out into the cell block.

Joe's cellmate took him from the guard as they reached the door of the cage that was his home. Tenderly the older convict laid him on his bunk.

"It's all right, buddy," he said. "Don't take it so hard, whatever it is. Yer wife'll be back to see ya in jus' one more week."

"She'll never be back," Joe moaned. "Never—never! That's the trouble. I just fixed it so I'd never see her again."

The convict looked blankly astonished. "What'd ya wanna do 'at for?"

Joe rolled back on his bunk, doubling up as though in pain, his face to the wall. "Because I love her—I love her so much." The words came like a long cry of anguish.

CHAPTER XII

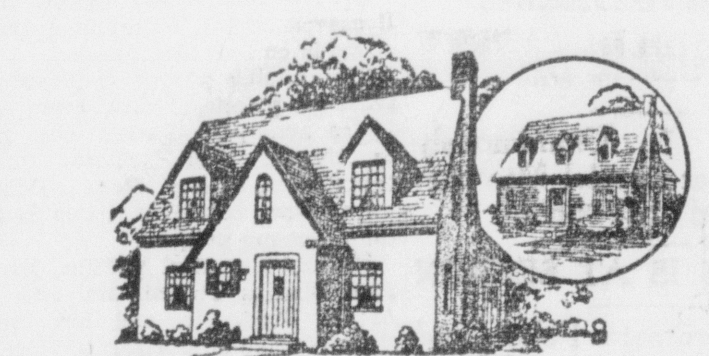

Christmas Day in the morning! The early rays of the winter sun danced over snow clad roofs, lending to stately, dignified houses the semblance of huge, frosted birthday cakes lighted with a million tiny candles. A playful breeze wandered aimlessly about, sending up small dervishes of glittering, frosty jewels, swirling them about, and then allowing them to sink back to rest. On one massive door in the Sixties it discovered a huge holly wreath hung with tiny silver bells, and here it paused to make them tinkle out their thin notes of greeting.

Beyond and on the other side of this door a pleasant odour of bacon and smoke and breakfast coffee filtered through the air. A festive, holiday spirit seemed to pervade the high ceilings of the room, hung with their garlands of greenery. And to one very special room Dr. Robert

Memorial M. E. Church on Friday evening. Scout Master Francis Gleason was a credit to himself and the Scouts as master of ceremonies, likewise his able assistant, senior patrol leader, Marvin Collins. Speeches were made by Mr. Liebfried and Mr. Kynoch. Alfred Jayne gave a very humorous description of a hike which kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Instrumental solos were rendered by Marvin Collins, violin solo; William Ferrier, violin solo; ukelele, Jackson Bauers; harmonica, Walter Barlow and Richard Barlow. All were accompanied by Mrs. John Bauers at the piano. Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

NEURITIS GONE
THROUGH POWER
OF NEW KONJOLA

New Medicine Quickly Conquers This Dread Ailment For Happy Woman

MRS. LIBBIE PARSONS

"I suffered torturing agony for more than four years with neuritis," said Mrs. Libbie Parsons, Route 7, Mertz town, near Allentown. "I spent a great deal of money in a vain search for relief. Stabbing pains in my arms and the back of my head often caused me to scream in agony, and for days at a time my joints were so stiff that I could not even walk."

"Friends whom Konjola had helped finally persuaded me to try this new medicine. It was not long before this dread ailment was driven entirely from my system. Today, I am free from pain and my joints are no longer stiff. I get about as well as I ever did and my general health has been built up until I feel better than I have in years. There is no question in my mind as to the merit of this great medicine."

... in the foyer it's FASHION!

... in a cigarette it's TASTE!

FASHIONS in dress may change in a day, but Chesterfield "comes into fashion," and stays there, for its un-failing good taste.

Mild... not strong or harsh... and yet they "satisfy." A cigarette with character... not insipid or tasteless, but rich, spicy, fragrant.

It is no fad, this swing to Chesterfield, but a sound and growing appreciation of good tobaccos, good blending... in short, good taste—

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield
